Thanks to the video of the song "Headless Chicken" and the guest performances of the Binzer brothers (both D-A-D, vocals and guitars) there, I was very excited and happy for the whole disc. As the song is a great party-song in D-A-D manner...of course though, as it is sung by D-A-D.

The rest of the disc of the Danes slightly slacks off during the run through regarding the quality, for it is unfortunately not the great breakthrough, which one would have desired. One clearly hears the D-A-D bonds in the songs, but it is sadly not more than basic hard rock. Therefore the riffs and arrangements in the hard rock genre have been heard too often, though. Also the really good singing hymns do not pull the oar very much around.

One could say now that this is complaining about first world problems, because this is really well done and the fun factor fits also well. But it is a disc, which makes you want to turn the volume up at a party in a good mood or while driving in summer.

A little AC / DC here, a portion of D-A-D there (did I already mention this? ...) and a pinch of general hard rock. I hope that the Rock 'n' Roll Radio will find his listeners, but I think it will be difficult. In this genre Airborne is currently the placekeeper.

Conclusion:

Basic Hard Rock that will find his fans. Unfortunately, however, somewhat replacable and without sparking moments. It is a good fun factor and provided with the predicate " it can't hurt to try it".
