

Metal Only

Das einzig WAHRE Metalradio im Netz!

Band: Cokegoat (USA)

Genre: Stoner / Doom Metal

Label: The Path Less Traveled Records

Album name: Vessel

Playtime: 38:49

Releasedate: 29.4.2014

According to the band biography it seems that one member was kicked out off every band he was playing in and another one only speaks positively about every band, which he never saw, though. Also Cokegoat had thoughts about how a goat with a serious cocain addiction would behave. Their conclusion is that this goat (direct quote): "would fuck your face with riff heavy music that tastes like fresh flesh".

So far so stoned. According to them, their music style is something between Stoner, Sludge and Doom.

A nasty mix which Cokegoat gives us hereby. I dare to say that from my feelings the sound conveys here and there a tiny (but only a tiny) bit of Black Metal vibe. A good example is the song "Fly By Night – Pt. 2" where the drums get in fulltime beat through your ears and in the last quarter it is pervaded with gloomy Black Sabbath-like melodies.

I confirm this BM vibe because this certain feeling comes with all tracks just like it does in the band Watain. Also the website - link is shown below- reminds me of Black Metal.

It doesn't really sound like Stoner in some places. The speedy opener "Fear The Followers" could also be on a album from Carnivore. The following songs "Buried In The City", "Dogs" and "End Of Your Life – Pt.1" and "Pt.2" are pure Doom.

Above it all a whining voice stretches itself, which sounds almost depressive, but is also gloomily bawling and screaming it's matter into the world.

Conclusion: Fans of bands like Haarp and Cough can't do anything wrong with this album.

Rating: 6/10

Weblink: <http://cokegoat.bandcamp.com>, <http://cokegoat.com>

Line-Up:

Ed Nudd - Guitars, Vocals

Jeff Wojtysiak - Guitars, Vocals

Chase Bentley - Guitars

Tim Baldwin - Bass

Rebekah Brown - Keyboards, Vocals

Jordan Schultz - Drums

Tracklist:

01. Fear the Followers
02. Buried in the City
03. Dogs
04. End of Your Life, Pt. 1
05. End of Your Life, Pt. 2
06. Fly by Night, Pt. 2
07. Fly by Daylight
08. Glorious Dead

Author: Steiff / Translation: Singilary